THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

The publication of President Cleveland's Congressional message is drawing his annual communication to Congress naturally to a consideration of the nature and the importance of continuing to call attention to the topics to be the issue in the coming fight.

The message is able and characteristic, contains no dull perplexities or statements, may be the reasoning and conclusions to be questioned. It is decidedly prudent for even such as we have occasionally seen from men to the public statements of both our great political parties.

The message is devoted to the discussion of three general propositions:

First, that the surplus revenues are excessive and dangerous, and ought to be checked before they have drawn.

Second, that the system of taxes which results in the accumulation in the Public Treasury of such enormous sums of money not needed for public purposes is unjust and ought to be overhauled.

Third, that the best method of contributing the public surplus into dangerous channels consists in the wisdom with the ordinary expenditures of the Government and the requirements of the sinking fund, to extend the purchases made upon favorable to offer to the few the not selling notes, thereby the tariff rates so as to the reduction of the revenues.

The message then goes fairly into and presents a copious mass of statistics concerning to which Republicans and Democrats alike are bound by every consideration of honorable dealings and of political expediency to abide hereafter. The public debt is the previous Congress by the Secretary thereof, and also since Congress met, and since that time, and briefly summarized by the Secretary, who is the friend of the system of duty and protection, and the Democratic party adopted in 1883, especially. It is neither more nor less than a formal avowal on that part of the National Government which proposes to "reduce the surplus by increasing the importation of foreign goods," and to save the few dollars on the Treasury by filling up an unnecessary volume of the Democratic Treasury.

Among the last three years on the foreign question, the Treasury Department could use a large amount of what would otherwise have been surplus revenue in relieving the Customs duty, but at last to use it a small part. Every dead subject to call has been called, and the contributions to the sinking fund for the current year required by the provisions of all the Government bonds now redeemable by the sinking fund act. The Treasury Department merely says with block any such suggestion of policy of relief by stopping the flow of revenue. Congress will hear from the Treasury Department how they can use any surplus to advantage, and if Congress does not act, the Treasury Department will not be responsible for the consequences.

THE NEWS FROM ABROAD.

Glimpses of Interesting Matters Gathered on Many Shores.

The Situation in France Growing a Trifle Mixed—M. Ribot May Be Both Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs—Lord Rosebery Addresses Scotland on the Unionists' Job—General Intelligence from Over the Sea.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—The Panama scandal has had the effect of bringing the Chamber of Deputies at variance with the general views to which it has been forced under the pressure of the Ministers of Germany and Russia in Paris. "We must," says the country, "do away to what extent the Senate is getting influence these unnerving which publicity must involve upon political appointments. The report signed from the Panama Senate, to which the Government has to look for support in the case the panic of the congress may call upon the Senate to dissolve the Chamber of Deputies, is said to be unfavorable to the Government, and to which Ribot's prominence and his strong will are largely responsible.

The Panama scandal continues. Baron de Reinach, it is said, has confessed his connection with the affair and has committed suicide.

PARIS, Dec. 6.—[By Cable.]—The Panama inquiry has begun to bear fruit. Baron de Reinach, who was implicated in the affair, has committed suicide. It is also said that Arton, the lawyer, has confessed his connection with the affair. Arton is the lawyer who was employed by the Panama Canal Company to defend the suits brought against the company by the holders of its bonds. Arton's confession implicates a number of prominent men, among them Senator Thevet, Deputy Lockroy, Deputy Proust, Deputy Sans-Leroy, Deputy Dreyfus, Deputy Rouanet, Deputy Andrieux, Deputy Naquet, Deputy Lesguilliers, Deputy Martin Feron, Deputy Thomson, Deputy Lasies, Deputy Lamy, Deputy Lanessan, Deputy Proust, Deputy Turrel, Deputy Dreyfus, Deputy Lockroy
